GLOBAL HEALTHSPAN POLICY INSTITUTE

Hello,

This week we learn about some of the breakthrough developments experts expect to see in aging research in the coming years, learn about a new gene-editing technique targeting premature aging related to Huntington's Disease, and we see how regular exercise can benefit our aging brains.

We also get a look at a report from the Harvard School of Public Health, outlining how optimism and positive outlooks can lead to longer, healthier lives.

Before you go, don't forget to check out the list of upcoming conferences and events in the world of aging research. You'll see events updated every week, so keep checking in!

Are you part of a health or life extension research organization? Our coalition has grown to over 90 member groups, including 25 major US organizations and 16 major international groups. We hope your organization will be next! Check below to find a link to join our coalition quickly and easily.

All this and more this week. Join us as we move forward into another exciting month of incredible opportunities in this burgeoning and revolutionary field.
